Company profile

KAMguru helps you to develop profitable partnerships with your most important customers.

Our work is built around the "first rule of business" i.e. "look after your most important customers before someone else does!"

We help you stand out from your competitors (rather than stand up to them) by working as an exceptional "business partner" rather than an efficient "supplier".

Our combined experience

30YEARS

Key Account Management

25YEARS

Sales Consulting

20YEARS

KAM Auditing

20YEARS

Business Training

Our key account management (KAM) work starts in the boardroom where we:

- Spend time really understanding your business, your objectives for the future and your needs
- Understand where key account management "fits" in your thinking
- Build measurable performance indicators to ensure we meet and exceed your expectations at every stage of a project

David Ventura

KAM Speaker and Coach

A typical KAM project has three phases:

PHASE ONE:

A ten-point health-check workshop to examine the clarity and understanding of KAM within your business and discuss the three P's i.e. its purpose, principles and processes

- | | |
|---|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Examining the message you send to prospects and potential key accounts | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Becoming an expert in their world |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Working as a partner not a supplier – building the partnership indicators | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The role of an account manager today |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The four stages of the value ladder | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Promoting KAM as a team sport within your business |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Auditing the feelings and perceptions of your key accounts | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Situational account management – round pegs for round holes |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Exceeding the key account's expectations at every stage | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Mobilising and deploying the big guns i.e. the senior team |

PHASE TWO:

Building the plan – a simple and effective tool that links together the Intelligence, Intentions and Implementation plan for each key account. These plans can then be shared with team members directly involved in supporting key accounts, or with other support staff indirectly involved.

PHASE THREE:

Developing your PEOPLE – improving their relationship building skills to ensure that they are working in a spirit of partnership with a consultative style.

KAMguru has a long, successful pedigree and track record of delighting customers by exceeding their expectations and providing an excellent return on investment.

For more than twenty years, over 95% of the company's business has come from referrals and recommendations from happy customers.

How do we differ?

01.

The journey from strategy to reality is rarely straightforward.

We are a highly effective implementation consultancy and are committed to transferring our tactics, tools and techniques from your boardroom, through the training room to your real world in the field.

"Ten new ideas are good but one put into practice is even better!"

We believe that the most important part of a two-day programme is "day three" and our emphasis is on your output, not just our input.

We offer one-to-one coaching clinics where your people would discuss progress with us and build actions for the future that would take them closer to achieving their key account objectives.

02.

We work as partners, not suppliers.

There are times when we are nurturing and supportive and there are times when we rigorously pursue agreed objectives.

We like to work closely and confidentially as a dotted-line member of your management team.

"People hate to be taught but they love to learn." Therefore the active involvement of your people and ownership of any action plan is key to our process.

"If people help plan the battle they don't battle the plan!"

TESTIMONIALS

"KAMguru's ideas on 'account management as a team sport' helped us through the minefield of 48 decision makers and influencers – in one account! The model was then used for another 19 accounts where cross-selling opportunities were identified and exploited with great success"

Nick Hurrell
Business Development Director, Hogg Robinson
